BY TELEGRAPH TO THE STATE

PORTLAND MORNING, JULY 21, 1865

The Pirate Shenandoah

The telegraph brings us full details of recent and unprecedented ravages committed during our shipping by the pirate Shenandoah. These acts are calculated to fill all people who regard the usages of war with the greatest horror. The whaling fleet in the Northern Pacific are entirely at the mercy of this ruffian craft, and experience must show us whether we have a semblance of right if indeed we have the power to protect our property. The whaling fleet is composed almost entirely of vessels owned by citizens of the United States, and now in the face of the world the Government of the United States stand not merely in the light of enemies to a single nation, but as treacherous enemies to the whole human race.

There is full proof that these piratical villains are perfectly well informed of events which have recently transpired in the United States. They know that the Confederacy is dissolved and the belligerency of the South is at an end. They cannot plead ignorance of these matters. If caught, they can only be dealt with as felons. It was hoped that when they heard of the loss of the "Confederate" cause they would abandon the sea, and not deserve from the status which they claimed to occupy as belligerents to the perpetration of acts which must cause them to be regarded as pirates throughout the whole world.

We have no war vessels in the Northern Pacific suitable to give chase to the corsair. It appears that there is no obstacle in the way to prevent the pirate from ravaging as he wills. It would not be surprising if he appears on our coast very soon. Indeed it is very likely that an attempt will be made by him to intercept some of our steamers so as to secure their treasure. Considerable anxiety will be felt on this coast so long as it is known that the pirate is still roaming the seas.

IMPUDENCY REWARDED.—As a practical proof of that unscrupulous tyranny which has completely abrogated the right of free speech among Americans, mention may be made of the permitted transfer of the Richmond Examiner to New York shortly after the publication of that delectable sheet was forcibly suspended in its patronymic city. The same person who, for years, wrote the bitterest of all those denunciations of our people and Government, which appeared in the rabid Richmond press, very modestly went to New York, a short time after his longer stay in Richmond was rendered unnecessary, and began to edit that most excellent "Democratic" journal the Daily News. Somehow he got a premonition after a time, that he was thought a proper subject to whom the laws defined treason, and its punishment might very properly be applied, and accordingly he resigned his position as editor of the News, and took occasion to write a letter full of insult to the Government whose protection he impudently claimed after having tried to destroy it. He assumed to be quite independent of all law and authority, and hedged himself within the inviolable sphere of his "reserved rights." Here is a sample of that insufferably impudent letter:

> I say that I asked leave of nobody to come to this city and to write in the News. Further, I do not conceive why, if both be base and going at large by virtue of the "amnesty" that some papers have mentioned. Neither have I asked any "pardon," and I trust the President will not be a pardon upon me until I shall have been first convicted of some thing. I should be obliged, with thanks for his politeness, to decline it. He is very kind, but I do not ask the article.

This pestilent traitor whose outlawed existence is prolonged merely because the Government is too sore of its assailants to deal with them as they deal with it, has been in irons preparatory to a trial for treason. Since he so vauntingly declines pardon, he ought, without more ado, to be convicted and hang. This fellow, John Mitchel will not find the P. M. at "pressing a pardon" upon him. His former crimes already exclude him from a considerable part of the civilized world, and as there seems to be no place on earth to which he can be conveniently banished, it will be necessary to hang him.

LACONIC.—A few days ago a gentleman who arrived from the Atlantic States by a voyage round Cape Horn, related us an amusing incident illustrative of the American partiality for brevity of expression. He left New York in March, while the indomitable Grant was still "fighting it out on that line." On arriving at Valparaiso, knowing that later dates than his departure from New York had been received at the city of the Valley of Paradise, by the way of Panama, he started in search of an American from whom he could learn the news. He had gone but a short distance when he met an individual wearing a blue coat with brass buttons, a broad Panama hat and a cigar. "Pardon me, sir," said the polite Californian, "could you tell me the latest news from the States?" "Certainly," replied the other without removing the cigar from his mouth, "Grant has taken Richmond, Sherman has Charleston Lee has surrendered his army and Johnston has done the same with his'n, President Lincoln has been assassinated by an actor named Booth, Andy Johnson is President of the United States and has issued an amnesty proclamation, 'bout the same as a treaty of peace, and Jeff. Davis was caught by the scgars, a trying to run away in his wife's clothes."—Sacramento Bee

The above is certainly an extraordinary instance of American laconism. From his remarkable precision for mere talking the Yankee in some homes taken to be nothing more than a voluble boaster, if merely to rehearse his own imaginary exploits. On the contrary, his greatest achievements are taken by himself as the most ordinary occurrences. In the foregoing instance the greatest events of this century are spoken of with not an emotion of surprise or animation. Into a single sentence is crowded that series of wonders whose unusual and unexpected occurrence astonished the world.

THE COLFAX PARTY.—Mr Colfax and his fellow companions, with some of the officers of the Oregon Steam Navigation Co, and a few invited guests, start up the Columbia river this morning to a point some fifty miles above the Dalles, and expect to return to Portland by Sunday noon. Monday morning our visitors start for Olympia, going through Puget Sound to Victoria, arriving there Thursday, and on Friday start for San Francisco by the Sierra Nevada. Mr Colfax has been compelled to abbreviate his visit to Oregon and the region North of us by the fact that on any day he may receive dispatches recalling him home, and must therefore be in San Francisco at the time each semi monthly steamer starts for Panama. This alone prevented him from stopping at various towns on the road from California and extending his trip up the river to Wallula and Walla Walla, as he very much desired to do. He came North before visiting the Yosemite, Big Trees Geysers, &c., in California to be sure that he should see this part of the Pacific coast if compelled to return home earlier than he desired or contemplated.

The Montgomery Alabama correspondent of the Times with the Sixteenth Army Corps writes that he met a colored man 78 years old born in the North a free man, who had been kidnapped at the age of 15 and had been held in slavery sixty three years. He said this was the first chance he had had in all these long years of slavery to regain his liberty, and he was bound to see all himself of it. He would not risk staying with his old master and take the chance of being made free by the laws.

DATES TO MAY 11

More of the Assassination Plot

NEW YORK, July 8.—[Extra.] Though it is refused by many as millennial, a portion of Alexandria and others believe it true.

The Times says one of the executive says that Harrison had a written statement to the effect that on the night of the assassination Booth and Harrison had an interview at Booth's room, and that Booth then left the room, and Harrison followed him out. Booth then went to Ford's Theatre, and Harrison to the Navy Yard bridge, where he was to be met by Booth, and assisted in his escape. Harrison, however, was arrested before Booth arrived, and he was compelled to make his escape alone.

Offers to be Mustered Out

NEW YORK, July 8.—[Extra.] A special to the Herald says that the 1st and 2d Maine cavalry have offered to be mustered out, but if not accepted will re-enlist as veterans.

The Herald says that Secretary Seward is not expected to live. He is reported to be sinking rapidly.

The Herald says that Secretary Stanton has resigned, and that Governor Fenton, of New York, will be appointed in his place.
